A.L.F. all songs of episode names

As close as possible.

Exceptions

Episode 1: "A.L.F." is not a song.

Episode 3: "Looking for Lucky" is not a song name, but several years after "The Hootie and the Blowfish" released a album with the same name.

Episode 10: The name of the song is "Drive My Car" by The Beatles but the lyrics mentioned "Baby, You can drive my car".

Episode 12: The name of the episode is "Oh, Tannerbaum" a miss spell of "Oh, Tannenbaum". I Google it and the first result was "O Christmas Tree" of Aretha Franklin... I considerate appropriate to include on the list this song.

Episode 15: The name of the song is "New Attitude" by the Patti LaBelle but the lyrics mentioned "I've Got a New Attitude".

Episode 20: The name of the song is "Going Out Of My Head" by the Little Anthony & The Imperials but the lyrics mentioned "Goin' out of my head over you".

Episode 22: The name of the episode is "It Isn't Easy ... Bein' Green" a miss spell of "It's Not Easy Being Green" of The Muppets... I searched on Spotify and the more closer version is from Brenna Whitaker. It is more recent than the ALF show but I considerate appropriate to include on the list this song.

Episode 25: "La cucaracha" es una cancion folclorica mexicana, pero conociendo el ego de los gringos y su vaga cultura de lo que esta fuera de su pais, puse la version de Louis Armstrong que pensaran es original de el. Y no pongo una version mexicana solo por joderlos a ellos tambien. JJJ.

Episode 28: The name of the episode is "Somewhere Over the Rerun" a miss spell of "Somewhere Over the Rerun" of Wizard of Oz sound track.

Episode 29: The name of the song is "Against All Odds (Take a Look at Me Now)" by the Phil Collins but the lyrics mentioned "So take a look at me now".

Episode 38 and 39: "ALF's Special Christmas" is not a song.

Episode 42: The name of the song is "Uncle Albert/Admiral Halsey" by the Paul and Linda McCartney but the lyrics mentioned "We're So Sorry, Uncle Albert".

Episode 46: The name of the song is "Hound Dog" by Big Mama Thornton but I choose the Elvis version because likes it a lot. The lyrics mentioned "You ain't nothin' but a hound dog".

Episode 52: The name of the song is "The Varsite Drag" I choose the Tito Puente version.

Episode 56 and 57: The name of the episode is "Tonight, Tonight" a miss spell of "Tonight, Tonight, Tonight" of Genesis.

Episode 59 and 60: "Turkey in the Straw" is a american folk song... I choose one instrumental version of Banjo Troubadours.
